(Bob Moss Retrospective)

Robert Clark 'Bob' Moss (1955-2011) was a Utah legend. While working at Sam Weller's Books in the 1980s he learned of Brigham Young's failed linguistic experiment, the Deseret Alphabet, and began incorporating it into his distinctive art; an eclectic blend of wood-burning, collage, acrylics, glitter, and markers. Bob released several albums of 'folknik' music with his banjo or guitar, making every song he played, his own.

"I can say that Bob was, without a doubt, a significant artist and a brilliant, unique voice. He was a first-rate artist. He followed his muse. I can say Bob was a huge influence on me and many others. Bob was a true pioneer, taking his art where others were afraid to go." – Trent Harris

Tschanz Rare Books is pleased to be handling 79 original pieces from Bob Moss, with our gallery open and the doors unlocked (I know we are shocked too) for Gallery Stroll this coming Friday, the 19th. The show will be up for a month. Any items sold will be shipped when the show comes down.
